Ford Describes Car That
Shunted His Coupe
From Road Sunday

DETROIT, March 31.—Henry Ford, still weak, moping with pain and occasionally losing blood from his lungs tonight, was reported out of danger, while the mystery of his last Sunday night's automobile crash remained unsolved. Despite almost boisterous efforts that were made today to deny a death plot, fabulously contrived by two would-be assassins, a source close to Mr. Ford said, "Henry Ford himself is convinced that a deliberate attempt was made on his life."

Ford, driving alone from a visit to his Dearborn plant laboratories, was shunted from the rain-splashed road, toppled down a 15-foot embankment into a tree at 8:30 o'clock last Sunday night. He lay unconscious there for a "problematic period."

On the heels of a denial emanating from the Detroit Detective bureau that local operatives had engaged in an investigation it is known that all of last night and much of today was spent by the police and Henry Ford's special investigators in combing the underworld for possible suspects. Also the same men went through scores of garages looking for a Studebaker touring car answering the description as supplied by Mr. Ford.

For the most part, employees met every question with sealed lips.

A person, high in Mr. Ford's confidence, said: "Mr. Ford is a man of extraordinary power of observation. He was able to tell much about the car which struck him, although he did not get the license number. He was sure there were two men in the car for he had seen the same two men and the same car entering at the entrance of the laboratory building when he went in there. He could not be mistaken."

Late tonight Mr. Ford was reported to have sunk into a sound sleep. He slept only fitfully during the day. Each slight movement aroused him and caused him to cry out.

Human Fly And Movie Stunt Actor Will Thrill Crowds With Bank Building Climb

If you should see a human figure clinging to the side of the American Trust company building tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 or evening at 7:30 don't imagine that you are witnessing a daring bank robber making his getaway. Henry D. D. Roland, "Human Fly," and movie stunt actor will be the person in question. He intends to climb from the pavement to the top of the edifice, from which advantageous position he will uncoil a number of dare devil stunts that will eclipse any thrills that his climb might give. Once Roland is safe on the roof he will proceed to balance himself on chairs placed precariously near the edge and otherwise cavort in death-defying manner. Roland has been climbing buildings all over the nation for the last twelve years and says he means to let nothing go over his head. For all his stunts he's not upish in the least. His highest climb was on the L. C. Smith building in Seattle, 42 stories high. He doubled for Harold Lloyd in his picture, "Safety Last." In the evening exhibition he will walk the edge of the building blindfolded. The "Human Fly" has fallen but once in his numerous climbs and that was from the court house building in Bloomfield, Iowa. A pigeon flying in his face was the cause of the downfall.

Twenty-five per cent of the stunts receipts will go to a local charitable organization, according to Roland. A climbing young man we calls him.

MRS. GOUGH IS FREED IN OIL GRAFT CHARGE

Legal Maneuvering Wins
Freedom for Woman on Swindle Charge

Husband is Now Serving
Term in San Quentin
For Same Offense.

Astute legal maneuvers and technicalities won freedom for Mrs. Gertrude E. Gough charged with aiding her husband, James Gough, in concealing $50,000 in bankruptcy proceedings, after an exposure of an oil swindle for which Gough is now serving a sentence in San Quentin. The fraud took more than $40,000 out of Richmond alone.

Attorneys for Mrs. Gough moved for an acquittal in the case claiming that a conspiracy charge could not be sustained since a man and his wife are one in the eyes of the law and cannot technically conspire; and that in the government's charge that she had aided her husband the word "knowingly" had been omitted and that therefore no crime had been charged.

Although Mrs. Gough was released she was rearrested immediately after the points were upheld. Attorneys for the defense then moved that the new charges in which the necessary correction had been made be dismissed inasmuch as she had once been in jeopardy and that the statute of limitations had run out. The maneuver won freedom for the defendant.

Local police state that Zweifel, who has been in California about three months, has passed worthless checks on the Golden Auto company, and the Western Auto Supply company, both of Richmond, and several stores of the Western Auto Supply company in Oakland and Berkeley.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—The Standard Oil Company of California cut the retail price of gasoline here to 14 1/2 cents a gallon, making it 1 1/2 cents, to follow the recent action of E. L. Although officials of the various companies deny it, a price war seemed in prospect.

W.D. Carter To Construct New Building Near Present Site

Pioneer Barber Will Put Up Two Story Building
On Macdonald Avenue

W. D. Carter, proprietor of a barber shop at 2025 Macdonald avenue, will have his present shop moved back from the sidewalk next week and in its place will erect a new two-story structure. S. B. Roberson is the contractor.

Ever since 1903 Carter has been moving his shops around in Richmond to keep pace with the growing city. His first shop was on Second street in the Old Terminal hotel. That was in 1903. Between First and Second streets in those days he remodeled, there were only three establishments; a grocery, a bakery and a hardware store. He has moved his shops since then from between Third and Fourth streets, Tenth street, First and Second streets and a number of other locations, and now will build his new and permanent structure.

When Carter first settled in Richmond, he said, there were no buildings on Macdonald avenue east of Third street. The Richmond Land company had its building on the corner of Tenth street, which was regarded more or less as a country landmark. This company owned most of the adjacent territory which at that time was merely grass covered fields.

The center of business was at Point Richmond. Macdonald avenue was unimproved and in the winter time was filled with mud puddles. A sign on Third street bore the inscription: "No hunting or fishing allowed."

A wooden sidewalk extended from Tenth street to the Santa Fe tracks.

According to Carter the first car line in the district was built by W. S. Rheems, a Standard Oil man. It was privately owned and met the Oakland Car company's trucks at the county line. The postoffice was facing the railroad at the foot of Barrett avenue, which was then Richmond avenue.

New Firm Is One of
Largest Manufacturers
Of Kind On Coast

The location of the Valley Concrete Pipe and Products company of Luba city in Richmond, is assured with the acquisition of three and a half acres bordering Meade street in the Stege section, the Richmond Industrial commission announced yesterday. The corporation is one of the largest manufacturers of concrete products in the West. Tentative plans for output in Richmond include concrete pipe for sewers, irrigation and culverts, plumbers' connections, septic tanks, meter boxes, garden furniture, building blocks, and pre-cast foundation pillars.

An investment of about $40,000 will be made to start in the Richmond plant. An average of from 20 to 30 men will be employed, officials announced.

Owners of the organization are G. D. Williamson, president, and J. G. Williamson, vice president. They are well known in the southern part of the state for their part in manufacturing the miles of concrete pipe used in the irrigation system of the San Fernando valley. Plants are now located in the Sacramento valley. The property was acquired from the Sherwin-Williams company for a consideration said to have been $10,000. Actual construction on the plant will begin at once, and work has already started on a Southern Pacific spur track.

City Engineer E. A. Hoffman and City Manager James A. McVittie were instrumental in finishing the necessary surveys incidental to locating the plant.

American Consul Reports
That Countrymen Are Cut Off From Relief

Must Penetrate Hostile
Cantonese Lines To Reach Safety

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, March 31.—

Nearly 500 Americans in the Tsinan and Anwei area of China are in imminent danger and cut off from relief, W. G. Swaney, American Consul there, reported to the state department today.

Of this number, approximately 100 are far removed in the interior from the already inaccessible Tsinan consulate and entirely isolated.

Tsinan is several hundred miles from the coast on the Shantung Peninsula. In the immediate path of the retreating Shantung army, Swaney has appealed to the Chinese for troop trains, the only means of getting the Americans out to safety but reports that no trains are available. Such Americans as find their way out will have to do so by their own initiative, officials said.

The territory they occupy is north of the Yangtze river, which they cannot reach without penetrating the hostile Cantonese lines. It would be next to impossible for American or other foreign forces to reach them, it was stated.

Sergeant Finds Long Mourned Police Badge

A delightful and totally unexpected "reminiscent party" was staged in the back yard of Sergeant Harry E. Livingston, of the Richmond police department, recently. The sergeant was the only guest present and was entertaining himself with rare abandon to the hoe and shovel. As he heaved great heaps of earth to one side with mighty gestures, he suddenly stopped.

Tears of remembrance came to his eyes. His brow clouded with thought. He flung his shovel aside and knelt on the ground, at the same time removing his hat with a reverent gesture. He had found it. "It" the prize possession which had been missing for so many years, Clara Bow might have a superabundance of "it," but Sergeant Livingston had found something which he would not exchange for all the "sox" appeal in this bleary-eyed world.

He picked up the old town marshal badge which he had worn in 1905. The huge star in its bulging face was now corroded, but it still demanded the respect of all law-abiding citizens. He moistened the star—nothing was said of exhortation—and it shone in pristine glory (the star, that is). Fiat lux, the tale is done.

Official Paper Of The City Of Richmond, California

CRIME NEWS

Addressing a conference on crime, Charles H. Dennis, editor of the Chicago Daily News, makes this reply to critics who condemn the papers for their use of crime news:

"Crime obtrudes itself, while news of meritorious actions, as a rule, is surprisingly difficult to capture.

"The outcry so many people make against the publication of crime news is in a sense an outcry against human nature. It is the province of a newspaper to be as interesting as possible, within the bounds of good taste and good morals. A newspaper exists only because it is a purveyor of news. If it ceases to publish the news in reasonably complete form, it presently ceases to exist, for the public dooms it to a swift or lingering death, and rightly so."

The same general idea might be put in a slightly different way. Take news that circulates naturally by word of mouth, in any community, without help from newspapers. What kind of news gains quickest currency and widest distribution by this "underground route?" Crime news or police news, mostly.

Let a murder or robbery or fight or unexplained death occur, and see how it spreads through the community! Nearly everybody makes it his business to tell his neighbors. And people seem instinctively to consider evil news more important than good news. That is merely what the newspapers seem to do on a bigger scale, over a wider range.

Yet even so, possibly the newspapers are blamed over-much. The amount of crime news they print is exaggerated. In any but the yellowest papers, it bears a much lower proportion to the total volume of news than people imagine. The head-lines, or else readers' own keen interest in such news, may mislead them in estimating it.

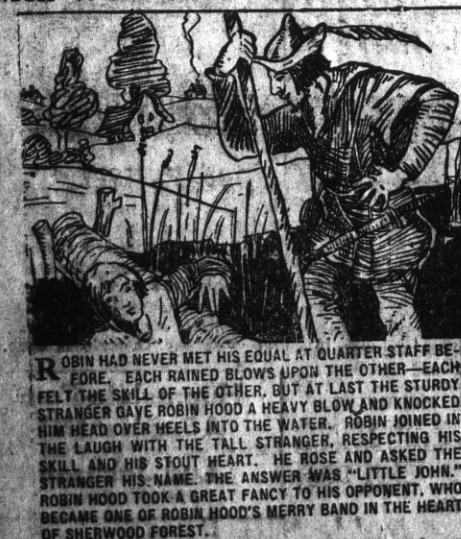

Great Britain has ignored the latest Russian note, but the note Britain really should have ignored was the one which asked for soviet recognition.

Don't Harp on the Child's Mistakes

When a child commits some sin which requires punishment, as soon as possible after the offense, make the punishment adequate, whether it be physical or psychological, so that the pain or unhappiness will be a little greater than the pleasure or joy the child derived from the offense, and then forget it.

This last part is where the parent very often defaults and so impairs the benefit of the discipline. If the punishment is proper and just and not even in part venting of anger or revenge or other unworthy emotion of the parent, when it has been inflicted neither the child nor the parent can look back on his or her own childhood and see that this is so. It is a grievous mistake, then, for the parent to go on for hours or days or weeks putting and scolding and constantly recalling the incident or otherwise betraying a vivid recollection of the matter. The effect of this unwise course is pretty certain to be unfortunate for the child.

It is like physical punishment. No one would think of whipping a child a little every hour or at every opportunity over a period of weeks as punishment for some offense. That would be universally condemned as unwarranted cruelty. Well, psychological punishment dragged out through days and weeks of harping at or about the child is just as reprehensible and cruel, perhaps more so, because the effect is even more deplorable.

The destructive effect of this common disciplinary error is usually manifest in this way: First the child feels distressed by the parent's prolonged disapproval and resentment, and this provokes a queer little convulsion in the child's mind to the effect that he is queer, unlike other or nice children, a ordinary one. This naturally leads to a feeling of indifference and of harping continues, to antagonism. In such situations many of the moody mental depressions of adolescence have their origin. The cruellest father is the one who corrects a child for some wrong act, and then when the child comes to father's arms for the usual story or visit or play, thrusts the poor little beggar aside and tells him he is naughty and father doesn't like naughty boys. Stony hearted is the mother who can squint the advances of her little daughter because the little one has done something of which the mother cannot approve. These are the very brutal parents who turn out a daughter because the daughter follows her own inclinations in the matter of a marriage. These are the parents who not only refuse to instruct their own children in the sacred questions of life but interpose every obstacle in the way of the children getting wholesome instruction and then condemn the children unmercifully when they fall into error.

No matter how grievous a child's offense may seem, no matter how great a heartache it may give the parent, there is but one fair and square way to handle the situation: Administer the scolding, whipping, or lecture immediately, privately, and then forget that anything out of the way has happened. The parent who loves his child can forget anything, and by forgetting he preserves the child's love and respect, which factors go far in the molding of the child's character.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Now You Tell One

I want your leaflets or tracts on pimples and oily skin, the cigarette habit, anemia or what have you. (C. B. J.)

Answer—I have no leaflets or tracts to distribute, but perhaps I can give you some instruction, information or advice that will help, if you mention that you have pimples and oily skin, cigarette habit, or anemia or what have you.

Wandering Jew

Recently you told about primrose poison. Have you ever known anyone to have "skin rash" from handling "wandering Jew," the ivy or climbing plant? My doctor called my trouble primrose dermatitis, but when I assured him I had no primrose he said it must be from the "wandering Jew." (Miss C. H. F.)

Answer—I have not, and I can find no records of skin irritation from the wandering Jew.

How to Take H. M. F. B.

Please publish directions for taking hot mustard bath, for the cri. (M. S. T.)

Answer—I do not advise a hot mustard foot bath administered to the patient in bed. The one best bet, in my judgment, is the treatment of cri. It is very complicated—call a nurse. To be efficient the hot mustard foot bath must make the patient swearing mad, and so we doctors generally leave it to the nurse. I am really afraid to give the directions here, lest some readers suit self next week for gangrene, superinduced by the treatment.

Let It Heal, Let It Heal

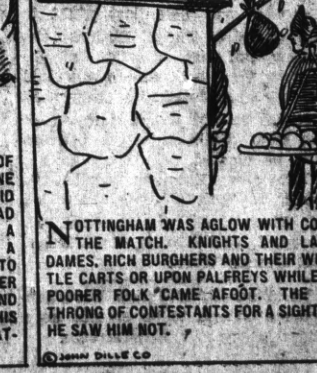

Should a varicose ulcer be healed as quickly as possible? or should you kindly give me a formula for a healing ointment for use on same and just how it should be treated? (Mrs. T. J. E.)

Answer—First put the patient to bed for a week, with the leg elevated most of the time. Then mix a little oil of sweet almond with a little alcohol, and apply to the ulcer. Any sore should be healed as quickly as possible. But the treatment calls for the skill and supervision of a physician. I know no formula for a healing ointment. I don't believe any ointment or other dressing should be deemed "healing." I can assure you that no cut and dried method of treatment will suit every case of varicose ulcer. Individual conditions must be taken into consideration in applying treatment.

HOW ELSE TO DO IT

Necessary Evil! But is any evil necessary? Apparently in one case, at least—The School Report Card. Parents demand it. Children cry for it and cry after they get it. Teachers substitute it for the old-fashioned ferrule. Students get into college with it. They get out through it.

I don't care for these cards. Never did as a boy (and perhaps discerning readers will guess the reason). Never did as a teacher. And never will.

But I see no way to avoid this necessary evil. Through it teachers prove (on paper) that Willie is N.G. or O.K. Through it Dad and Mumsey swell with pride or shrink with chagrin. Because of it the child works, is encouraged, feels defeat, is made sulky, becomes swell-headed, leaves school, goes to college, receives a diploma, gets fired. Around this little bit of cardboard are suicides, scoldings, honors, disgrace, prizes, punishments.

Scores of times when I am a house guest "Fond Mother" brings out the report cards saying: "I am naturally proud of it, three A's, three B's, and only one C." But the bit of paper tells me so little. How about Susie's health, eye-sight, initiative, capacity for useful work, ability to spend and earn, good taste in manners, dress and living?

Does Susie cry over her teachers? Does she hate Miss Brown? Is she well-mannered in the assembly? Does she have the spirit of self-improvement? How are her nerves? What is her attitude toward her mother? Is she straight, clean, and instinctively "fine?"

So I politely say: "Very lovely. I am sure, is Susie in? I'd love to see her."

And then Susie comes in. "Thank heaven," I sometimes say to myself, "she doesn't belong to my family." Why? Her health and personality do not match the wonderful report card.

In some way, I am not clear how, the schools must find a way to judge students on some broader basis than mere so-called "scholarship." Initiative, attitude toward life, school and parents; individual self-improvement; social consciousness, health, insight, artistic appreciations of beautiful living are some of the things which come to me.

One school I know has worked out penalties of conduct. Points in character education.

Every student starts out the beginning of the semester with 100 points. Points are taken off for listed offenses. If they get below 80 they lose certain privileges; below 70 a lot more.

Lack of honesty in cheating amounts from five to 15 points off; lying, five to 15; forgery, 10 to 15; cutting classes 5 to 15; stealing, 15 or more.

Lack of courtesy in auditorium, in class, study hall, one to five; chewing gum, one to five; jostling, one to five.

Miscellaneous—smoking, five to 20; bad language, five to 20; etc. While this is an interesting experiment, I do not like it. It is full of negotiations. Everybody in authority is running around with a pencil marking penalties. Everyone else is concerned in not getting caught. Character training is lost in the red tape of bookkeeping. Teachers become spies. Pupils become deceivers. Even prisons have a better system. We don't want supervisors or scout-provers for our youngsters.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER Works Both Ways

Schoolmaster—"Be very diligent in your studies. Remember, what you have learned no one can ever take from you."

Small boy—"Well, they can't ever take from me what I haven't learned either, can they?"

Pride Goeth before
My girl's friend and I have looked in school together, which usually calls for some kind of conversation in between, and we all right next to each other in almost all of our classes. We have had a little scrap and do not talk.

The first day she stood by the locker waiting for me to say I was sorry or something like that and I stood there waiting for her to ask me if I was going home with her or not. Neither one spoke though.

To tell the real truth, I think we are both wrong, because our quarrel was over nothing at all. It is up to me to make amends. I don't want to give in like a baby, because it isn't any more my fault than hers; but I won't be able to get along without her. The whole class will soon know it, because they always see us together.

A School Chum.

Answer—To me it never has made a bit of difference which one apologized first. If I value a friendship or a love, I will go a long way toward getting it back. I should never let pride stand in the way of love. You can pick up handfuls of false pride anywhere, but love is a scarcer article.

A REGULAR SCOUT

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Fred Blake, impersonating the "Jones" son of Mrs. Monroe, to avenge his mother's death, is accepted by Mrs. Monroe, June, her daughter, and Buddy, who is a Boy Scout, as their relative. He finds his conscience bothering him, and leaves. Seeing Buddy's life, he has to return, and when the Boy Scouts give him a medal for bravery he breaks down and confesses that he is hunted by the police. He is arrested.

CHAPTER XV SILVER DOES HIS BIT

Bide Hanson jerked Fred Blake's gun from the holster, handcuffed his prisoner, and led him out of the courtroom. As he walked out the street he said to Fred: "Sorry, pardner. I hates tuh do it." Fred smiled wanly, and they began rapidly to walk up the street to the adobe jail. A chattering crowd followed at their heels, crowding the two silent men, curious, inquisitive. It had been a great day for Silver. No sign of the Sheriff. The whole town was buzzing with the news. Fred Monroe not Fred Monroe—but a criminal—wanted by the police—for murder—rumored that Mrs. Monroe had broken down—tears on June Monroe's face—maybe she loved him—they said.

Directly in the midst of the crowd, looking behind the Sheriff, Silver saw a man in a dark suit, wilder, but determined. Silver, left outside the courtroom, now beheld his master and god being led in a very curious manner by a man in a dark suit, something wrong. Silver could feel it. Whereupon he pushed his huge, white nose through the crowd and strove to reach Fred, walking stiffly and unseeing along. A man irritably pushed his head away. Silver pushed back.

Just as he thought he had reached his master he saw Fred disappear into a small, iron-barred building, and the door shut tight behind him. Silver was puzzled, hurt, suspicious. Something was wrong, radically wrong. He tried to push through the crowd, but a burly man carrying a gun slapped him sharply and said: "G'on! Git away!" He dodged nervously to the side of the building and began to run in short circles near the barred window.

Yes—there he was! Silver's large, moist eyes fixed themselves on the downcast figure inside the barred room. He tapped on the pane of window-glass, protecting the bars, with his nose. Fred did not look up. What on earth was the matter? Had his beloved Fred forgotten him?

With difficulty picking up a large stone in his tender mouth, Silver trotted excitedly to the window, reached a few steps, and then dashed forward directly to the window. A violent toss of his head—a crash—and the stone had shattered the pane and fallen at Fred's feet. Fred looked up in surprise.

When June and her mother left the courtroom they went directly to their automobile, and Chuck took the wheel, with Lige sitting beside him. They talked in low tones. Neither Mrs. Monroe nor June said a word to each other during the ride. June's face was flushed, desperate. Mrs. Monroe stared straight ahead, unseeing. Once her lips moved, and she murmured: "Poor, poor boy!" But it was to herself.

Arrived at the ranch, Mrs. Monroe went directly to her room. June, passing the living-room, thought she heard sounds coming from the library beyond and paused, distracted, to investigate. She gasped as she saw two men bending over the wall-safe, extracting some papers and currency.

With a snarl, the man wheeled about, and June, horrified, recognized Steve Burlingame and Ed Powell. The husky, black-bearded Powell growled: "Quick! Get her an' come along—we gotta take her or she'll stir up the whole county!" He leaped out of the open window, the papers in his hand. Steve dashed for the terror-stricken, dumfounded girl, clasped his hand over her mouth, and dragged her out through the window. Powell was waiting with two horses, and before June knew what was happening she was being borne swiftly away in front of the panting Steve, the horse running like the wind. Nobody saw them leave.

Chuck and Lige had just retired to the bunk-house; the ranch-help were in town celebrating the "hoi-toi." Out on the open road, they dashed along at a tremendous rate. June realized the futility of struggling, and gave Steve Burlingame little trouble. As they tore past neither horseman noticed a thick clump of mesquite, gage after them, and then leap on his sturdy mountain horse and give chase. The horse ran like a greyhound—picked Scott's mount, best and tireless. The fleeing horsemen took a trail leading up into the hills, and the Scout dashed along in their tracks. As he came to the intersection of the road where the trail branched off into the mountains, he leaped off his horse and quickly gathered three large rocks, which he set directly pointing to the trail.

PRETTY LOVE STORY PLAYING AT CALIFORNIA

Jack Conway had his difficulties in making "The Understanding Heart," coming to the California theatre starting today, and it was all on account of the height of his leading man.

Whenever he wanted a close shot of Francis X. Bushman, Jr., and Joan Crawford, either the top of Bushman's head was out of the range of the camera, or Miss Crawford's chin was not visible.

Bushman, who is developing into a young Goliath, is an uncompromising and unshrinking 6 feet 3 inches tall, and Miss Crawford is only an average 5 feet 4 inches.

Now, as anyone can see, the distance between the two heights is 11 inches, which added to the 10-inch length of Joan's head, equals 21 inches. Now, then, suppose that Conway wanted a close-up of the two heads, the close-up measuring but 20 inches from top to bottom. The result is obvious. Some one would be partly out of the picture.

"The Understanding Heart" is a Cosmopolitan production of Peter B. Kyne's famous novel, and is playing at the California theatre. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

Other features on the same program include "The Fighting Spirit," the sixth story of "The Collegians"; B. P. O. E. show frolic pictures at Tahoe Tavern; "Figures of Fancy," a screen novelty; "International News"; and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

'PEACHES' CROP LOSS IS JUST $8,000,000

(By Universal Service)

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 30.—That Edward W. Browning, whose experiences with young girls have been the subject of great public interest for some time is a real Cinderella man, quite capable of acting a generous role was established here today when his property holdings were estimated at near eight million dollars.

The disclosure of his wealth was made when attorneys for Browning and "Peaches" appeared today before Justice Seeger to present the formal findings in the recent marital suit, which he won.

Although Justice Seeger intimated when rendering his recent decision favoring Browning, that he would grant him a separation, there was no further talk of such a move today.

Henry Epstein, "Peaches'" attorney submitted a list of properties said to be owned by the "Cinderella-man," which were assessed at $5,629,000.

Epstein made it plain that the actual worth of the properties was close to eight million dollars. One piece of real estate owned by Browning in Manhattan's "roaring forties," magic theatre district, was assessed at $1,100,000. It was learned tonight that Browning intends tomorrow to start operations to disinherit his wife from any share in his fortune.

"Sick" Story Arrests Editor On Libel Charge

(By Universal Service)

MUNICH, March 31.—George R. Dale, editor of the Post-Democrat, was under arrest here today, on a grand jury indictment charging criminal libel of Circuit Court Judge Clarence W. Dearth. His bond was fixed at $3,000.

Judge Dearth, the main figure in the legislature's impeachment proceedings against him in Indianapolis, as the result of his seizure of Dale's newspaper and arrest of newsboys selling the paper, summoned a special grand jury to indict Dale.

But Dale could not be served until today for the last several weeks he has made his headquarters in Fort Recovery, O., editing his newspaper from there. He was induced to come here on a report that one of his children was ill.

Time Flies For Cal At 1 Cent Per Second

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, March 31.—Tick tick. Two swings of the pendulum, and there's two cents, for the President of the country, and for the presidents of several railroads and other corporations, according to Warner S. Hays, secretary of the clock manufacturers' association today.

"Time is money is an adage well founded," he added. "While the income of the average American worker is one and a half cents a minute, that of the higher-ups, including the highest-up, the President, runs on an average of about 60 or 60 cents a minute."

J. Lopez Will Come To Trial Next Tuesday

MARTINEZ, March 31.—A venire of 50 Contra Costa residents was drawn in Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado's court today for the trial next Tuesday of Jesus Lopez, 45, who is alleged to have stabbed to death Jose Sierra, 48, in a drunken duel in Pinole six weeks ago.

Sierra was stabbed several times in the chest, abdomen and back, and death was almost instantaneous. A verdict that Sierra's death was caused by Lopez' hand was returned by the coroner's jury. Both men were employed as section hands for the Santa Fe in Pinole.

The Secret of Success

One reason why some people do not attain their goal in their life work is because they do not receive the proper start.

This institution is especially interested in the young men, in seeing that they receive the proper start when they launch out for themselves.

It is not alone the matter of financing, but that they understand the conservative principles of business which bring success.

We will gladly plan with you in financing and offer advice that will help you.

The southeast corner of Eleventh street and Bissell avenue has been purchased by Henry Kallmann, well-known Richmond jeweler. It became known yesterday. The M. A. Hays company handled the deal which involved approximately $12,000, it was said. The property measures frontage of 112 feet on Eleventh street and 100 on Bissell avenue. Kallmann stated that he would hold the property for future development and would not erect a building at the present time.

RECORD-HERALD

ON April Fool's Day we are very chary about kicking hats or stooping for fat looking pocketbooks. But how about the rest of the year? Let's talk plain facts!

We all seek the best food, clothing, home furnishings, books, radios and automobiles that our money can buy. For these things are the necessary foundation to our real quest of happy home life, of cultural advantages, social privileges, and true contentment.

Each of us has but a limited amount of money with which to buy the things we need. We all laugh at the April Fool. Yet the April Fool could laugh at some of us when it comes to spending money wisely.

Remember that more than half your happiness is centered around the cultural advantages, social privileges, and home life of this town. Every dollar you spend here contributes its bit to the enrichment of these things. Every dollar spent elsewhere is a total loss, not only in this direction, but generally in the more concrete terms of actual value received.

It's a plain fact, as simple as A B C, that for the person who does not do all his trading at home, April Fool's Day comes 365 days a year.

Three Contend For Return Bout With Bud Taylor

(By Universal Service) NEW YORK, March 31.—A three-cornered battle is on for the right to stage the return match between Bud Taylor and Tony Canzoneri, for the bantamweight title. These mauling midgets put up such a great scrap in Chicago last week that three promoters are now bidding against one another for the return match, because the Chicago bout ended in a draw.

Jim Mullens wants the match for the Chicago ball park on June 16. Humbert Fugazy wants it for the Polo Grounds late in June, and Tex Rickard wants to put it on in the Garden in May.

Looks like Mullens has it on the local boys as Taylor would rather perform in his own town than take a chance in New York. The limit for bouts in Chicago is 16 rounds, while all championship bouts in New York go 15.

Government Is Ready To Make Veteran Loans

(By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, March 31.—Federal machinery was made ready today for an avalanche of veterans' loan applications expected tomorrow, when Uncle Sam will begin making the advances on adjusted service certificates, under the law passed at the last session of congress.

About 30,000 veterans can be given loans within the next 30 days, with funds now in hand, it was estimated. The veterans' bureau has about $3,000,000 from premium payments on insurance policies, and about this sum is expected to be available each month.

Provision of an additional $25,000,000 for loans, by borrowing from the adjusted service certificate fund, hinged tonight on the approval of Comptroller-General McCarl, whose ruling is expected in a day or two.

Heavy demand for loans in many sections of the country was foreshadowed by receipt of 700 premature applications at the Washington regional office. Some of these came from veterans in other parts of the country, who sent them to Washington in error.

All loans will be made through regional offices of the veterans' bureau, it was announced. Veterans needing loans, and unable to obtain them through banks, were urged to send their applications to the nearest office, by mail. Although prompt action was promised, a wait of a few days was stated to be inevitable.

"While you wait" service, by personal application, was declared impossible, because of the necessity of checking up applications and preparing checks for the amount of the loans.

The loan service by the bureau, authorized by congress when many banks refused to honor the certificates, will be supplemental to the bank loans.

With banks falling in line on a considerable scale the total loans made by them since the first of the year has now mounted to about $33,000,000.

El Cerrito Card Should Draw Big House

El Cerrito Fight Card Will Draw Bumper House

It has been a long time since a real old-fashioned card has been put on such as the one which is being staged by Promoter Joe Rossi tonight at El Cerrito. We say old-fashioned because that show has many features in boys that are all well known in these parts and all are prime favorites. Jack Beasley, one of the best heavy-weight prospects ever developed, faces Charley Martino, rugged Italian youth, in the six-round main event.

Both these big fellows are terrific hitters and if that fight goes six rounds fans will see much slugging such as they have never seen in years. Both are very game and as they are both out tooth and nail to win just bank your last dollar that it will be one of the most sensational fights ever seen in a boxing ring.

Woods-McDermott
Gunner Woods, who comes into the ring looking like a film with all of Uncle Sam's battleships portrayed on his chest, will battle four rounds or less with Jimmy McDermott. This will be a wild and woolly scrap while it lasts, as no one looks for these rough fellows to last out the limit.

Brown-Erle
Mickey Brown, the sterling junior lightweight of Richmond, takes on Bobby Erle of Oakland. At one time Erle gave promise to be a champ. He boxed and beat the best. Over matched in Los Angeles against Red Dolan of New Orleans, little Bobby was knocked out. He became disheartened. A year's layoff. Then Billy Bernheim, who had formerly managed Bobby, induced the youngster to again try his luck.

So Bobby, who is still a kid, will put his former cleverness against Brown. Mickey has all the points that a gamester has. Mickey in his short career here, has demonstrated that there are few better.

Chief Wahoo will have his war paint on. The audience will give Wahoo his famous war dance cry. The chief is to meet Dave White, the famous Eskimo. The Fighting Matador takes on Joe De Maria. Those last two scraps look like they should be worth the price alone. And then two other bouts between Rebel Stewart and Harry Walsh and Eddie Dixon and Charley Actis. Look these over. And this show is not a three-bit show, as they have in Oakland and elsewhere.

Ex-Ball Player Is Fatally Hurt In Heroic Rescue

(By Universal Service) HAMMOND, Ind., March 31.—Hurting his body through the air before an oncoming train to save a middle aged woman, Harry Newman, Carnegie medal holder, received probably fatal injuries today.

Newman a former ball player, had just tendered his resignation as grade crossing watchman on the Michigan central tracks, when he saw the woman, standing as if paralyzed with terror. But his heroic effort was in vain.

Mrs. Anna Smith, cruelly broken by the impact of the Chicago-bound Michigan Central train is not expected to live. Newman is breathing what is regarded as his last hours in the local hospital.

Two years ago he saved the life of Mrs. Flynn Sawyer of Hammond by pulling her out of the way of a train at the same crossing.

SINCLAIR IS DENIED NEW FRAUD TRIAL

(By Universal Service) WASHINGTON, March 31.—Harold F. Sinclair, oil magnate convicted two weeks ago in District of Columbia federal court for contempt of the United States senate, today was denied a new trial. Attorneys for Sinclair, lessee of the famous Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, will carry their fight to the court of appeals. Should they be unsuccessful there, application will be made to the United States supreme court for a review of the proceedings. Justice William Hitz, in denying the new trial motion, announced he would hear arguments from both the government

Modern Man Is A Savage Says Noted Divine

(By Universal Service) ST. LOUIS, March 31.—The right Rev. Irving Peake Johnson, Episcopal Bishop of Colorado, speaking at a noonday Lenten service in Christ church cathedral today, compared the modern money seeker with the scalping Indian. "The savage is incapable of sustained effort," said Bishop Johnson. "He is the kind of person who likes to hunt, gamble, and loaf, and let the women do the drudgery. You see him in the universe today, doing exactly the same thing; he does what he likes to do, and says religion is a thing for women and children. He is a savage, true to type."

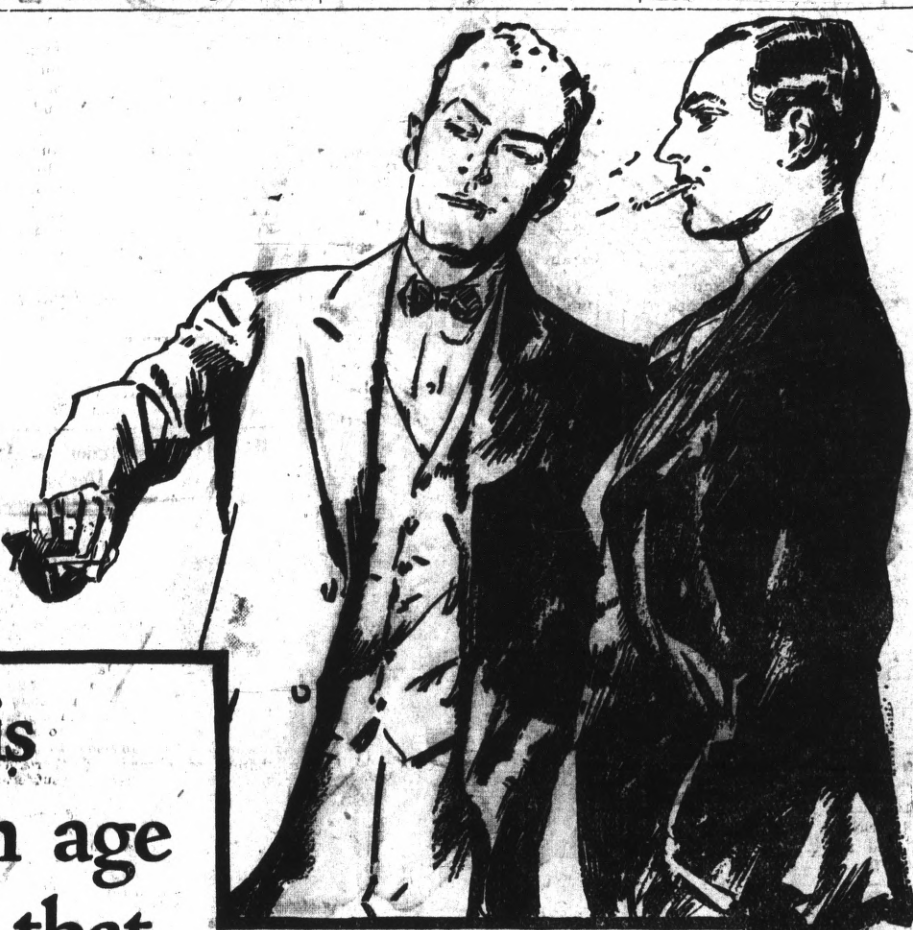

The modern savage takes money from victims as the Indian savage took scalps. Success is "ending life in a mausoleum worthy of one's status and condition."

The walkout will not inconvenience the public for at least 3 months, the government has said. It is expected that a new wage agreement will have been formed by that time. The operators claim they can not operate under this rate.

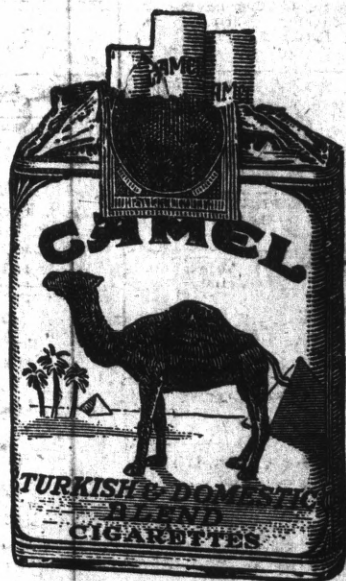

GAMES CALLED
Owing to the plentiful supply of mud and moisture yesterday the Pacific Coast league games were played by any of the clubs.

This modern age knows that Camel goodness is dependable

THIS modern age is the hardest to please ever known, and it delights in Camel. The smokers of today find tobacco enjoyment in Camels, for their goodness always is so dependable. The choicest tobaccos, and the most superb blending known to the smoking art are Camels.

In Camel you will find out what modern smokers demand—a smoothness, mildness and mellowness that you've never known before. That's why Camels never fail to meet the strict, exacting demands of present-day smokers. This modern age knows the sure call to smoke enjoyment: "Have a Camel!"

The Best Investment Is In Fong Wan Herbs

4837 Shattuck Ave., Oakland, Cal. July 30, 1926.

Ten years ago I had a Malasia which left me with a twinging pain in my left kidney and running around my left side. Be-cause I came to Oakland I had treated with numerous physicians and had been in several hospitals in New York. As I got no relief whatever, I was advised to make a change of climate. I therefore came West, but here I suffered as badly as ever.

Finally a friend urged me to try the FONG WAN HERBS. One week of that treatment gave me wonderful, permanent relief. During the year that has elapsed since I have had absolutely no indications of my former complaints.

How wonderful it seems that the FONG WAN HERBS could thus help me after the doctors and hospitals had failed. I am a barber by trade. Had it not been for the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENTS how could I have earned a living while suffering with those terrible pains?

I am very thankful to the FONG WAN HERBS SPECIALIST for what he has done for me and am giving him this testimonial as a token of my gratitude.

Annual Report Of Standard Oil Company Made Public

The annual report of the Standard Oil company, just made public by President W. S. Kingsbury, in the month's issue of the company's bulletin, contains much that is of interest to residents of Richmond. The total investment of the company in property, plant, and equipment totals the enormous sum of $597,560,697.26. Its ratio of current assets to current liabilities is 8 to 1.

The net profit of the company for the year 1926 was $55,122,014.21, an increase of $11,492,718.92, or 26.34 percent over the 1925 combined profits of the Standard Oil Company of California and the properties acquired from the Pacific Oil company.

Total taxes for the year 1926 were paid as follows: Federal income tax, 1926 (estimated), $4,850,000; franchise and licenses, $542,752.29; property taxes were $4,594,840.08, or a combined total of $9,987,592.67.

The company's pipe lines had total crude oil runs from wells during 1926 of 78,022,335 barrels, an average of 213,787 barrels per day. Crude oil was received from 278 producers and from 117 properties of the Standard Oil company, all in California.

Refineries The refineries of the company ran an average of 163,506 barrels of crude oil daily. During the year the company commenced construction on eight pressure units at its Richmond refinery and a like number at its El Segundo refinery, for the manufacture of cracked gasoline.

Sales Department At the end of 1926 the company was operating 742 storage distributing stations and 654 automobile service stations, the principal increase in stations being in California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Utah.

Tankage Oil tankage as of December 31, 1926, consisted of 60 reservoirs with a capacity of 47,400,012 barrels and steel tankage with a capacity of 37,647,939 barrels; a grand total of 85,048,001 42-gallon barrels.

During the year many light oil tanks were equipped with floating steel roofs, resulting in further conservation of gasoline.

Motor Vehicles On December 31 the company (including all subsidiaries) was operating 5404 pieces of motor equipment, an increase of 441 during the year.

Personnel On December 31 employees of the company numbered 22,313. The payroll for the year amounted to $45,458,564, an average of $177.31 per month per employee. Payments covering pensions, life insurance, and sickness disability benefits, amounted to $1,213,813, an average of $56.81 annually per employee, or 2.67 percent of the payroll.

Of the total employees, 46.57 percent were stockholders on December 31. However, 1219 former employees of the Pacific Oil company and 435 of the Pacific Gasoline company were not employees during the life of the Stock Investment and Savings plan, and therefore were not participants.

Under the Employees' Stock Investment and Savings plan of the Standard Oil company (California), which terminated May 31, 1926, there were distributed to 12,279 employees 497,736 shares of stock. Up to December 31, 14.12 percent of the employees had sold 6.8 percent of the stock so distributed, and but 9.95 percent of the employees had sold all of their stock, representing 5.17 percent of the total so distributed.

The price at which the stock was issued from the treasury during the five-year period was approximately the market price at the time of issuance. The net result to the company, after allowance for the 50 cents that the company put up for every dollar of the employee's treasury of $7,710,786 over the par value of the stock.

Stockholders Of record December 31, 1926, numbered 55,735. Of this total, 35.75 percent were women. Of the stockholders, 95.42 percent hold 500 shares or less; and 50.12 percent hold 25 shares or less; 98.87 percent live in the United States and own 99.35 percent of the outstanding capital stock, 41.23 percent of whom are residents of the Pacific coast; 18.64 percent of the stockholders are employees of the company.

Tubercular Preventorium To Be Urged By Mrs. Ogborn At Welfare Meeting Tonight

Establishment of a preventorium in the place of the "Sunshine Camp" held annually for several years for undernourished children of Contra Costa County will be urged by Mrs. Marie L. Ogborn, director of Christmas Seal sales in Richmond district at the executive meeting of the Welfare Council to be held in the home of Miss Edna D. Porter, at Concord, tonight.

The social service bureau, of which Mrs. Ogborn is one of the directors, works in cooperation with the Health Center, the local Parent-Teacher associations, and the school nurse. Families benefited thus have the approval of the various organizations.

Officers of the health association are W. R. Sharkey, president; Thomas B. Swift, treasurer; Rachael K. Miller, secretary; Mrs. Ogborn, Mrs. H. J. Curry, and Mrs. J. H. Bankson, vice presidents. In urging the preventorium Mrs. Ogborn declared: "My opinion is that so much time and funds are used in opening and dismantling it each year for such a short time, it would be well to conserve all funds possible and secure the preventorium. Also if the preventorium is secured, children now handled in other counties can be cared for at home."

"The funds derived from the seals are used for tuberculosis prevention. Twenty-five per cent goes to the national association, and the remainder is used for defraying expenses of 'Sunshine camp' at the end of the school term. All children are received who seem to need scientific feeding and play. These children are sent through the recommendation of local nurses and physicians."

Here Are Late Developments In China War

(By Universal Service) The following are the developments in the Chinese situation today, March 31:

Great Britain, supported by Japan, is about to deliver demands for reparations for the Nanking affair.

An urgent invitation has been given to the United States to join in such a demand.

A new crisis may follow such diplomatic moves. Chinese supporters of the Nationalist movement are reported to be in a truculent mood and not disposed to make any deals with the powers.

The British cabinet, apparently expecting rejection of such demands, is reported to be prepared to take other more drastic steps.

In Shanghai, the situation is comparatively quiet. Twenty thousand Chinese natives, driven from Chekiang province and later taking refuge in Shanghai, have been removed to Ningpo.

It is reported that further attempts have been made to tamper with the barbed wire entanglements defending the French concession.

Meanwhile, the evacuation of all foreigners from all districts in the danger zone continues.

NOMINATION PETITION OF PATTEN FILED

With the filing and approval of the nomination petition of Charles M. Patten yesterday in the office of City Clerk A. C. Earis, six candidates are now in the field for election to the city council.

There are three places on the council to be filled at the general municipal election May 9. The terms that expire are those of Mrs. Marie L. Ogborn, J. N. Hartnett and J. H. Plate. Plate has announced that he will not run again.

If one other contestant for a place comes out in the race a primary election will be held Monday, April 25. The date for filing nominations will close April 14. The charter provides that in the event that there are more than six candidates a primary election must be held. At the primary the six high candidates are nominated and run again at the general election when three are elected.

After the Fire—

We have all seen newspaper pictures of worried men and women fishing in the ruins of houses destroyed by fire. They were looking for jewelry, perhaps, or valuable papers; and the chance of finding them was very small indeed.

Valuable articles placed in bureau drawers, under the mattress, in a jug in the pantry—in any one of the hundred hiding places in the home—are always subject to the risk of loss by fire, theft, or carelessness.

Absolute protection against these dangers is provided by an American Trust safe deposit box. Boxes in various sizes, to suit any needs, are available at small cost in the new Richmond Branch.
